

THE BUSINESS COUNCIL

888 SEVENTEENTH STREET, N.W.

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20006

GUEST LIST - OCTOBER 1979

CLEMENT E. CONGER, Curator of the White House

Mr. Conger is Curator of the Diplomatic Reception Rooms at the Department of State. He has also been Curator of the White House since March 1970. He first joined the State Department in 1947 and served in many capacities, including two tours as Deputy Chief of Protocol.

When in the Office of Protocol, Mr. Conger initiated the program of securing prestige furnishings of the rooms by gifts and loans. Almost 20 years later, the collection of fine period American furniture, paintings and decorative arts in the Diplomatic Reception Rooms at the State Department are valued at more than $18 million. In the time since he has been Curator of the White House he has lifted the collection of furnishings to the front rank of Americana of the 19th Century. In January 1972 he was named "Collector of the Year" by the Museum of Fine Arts and in January 1976 he received the Second Annual Award for Distinguished Contributions to the Field of Fine Arts and Antiques by Antique Monthly Magazine.

Mr. Conger is married to the former Lianne Hopkins, the daughter of the late John Jay Hopkins. They have three children and reside in Alexandria, Virginia.

GENERAL ALEXANDER M. HAIG, Jr., U. S. Army - Retired

General Haig was born in Philadelphia in 1924. After undergraduate studies at the University of Notre Dame in 1943, he entered the U.S. Military Academy, graduating in the class of 1947. He also holds an MA in International Relations from Georgetown University, is a graduate of the Ground General School at Fort Riley, Kansas, and of the Naval and Army War Colleges.

During his early military career he served in Japan and Korea, then returned to Fort Knox, Kentucky as a tank company commander. He later served with the U.S. Army in Europe. His Pentagon assignments have included staff positions with the Office of the Army Deputy Chief of Staff, Secretary of the Army, Secretary and Deputy Secretary of Defense and Liaison with the Office of the President. For his service in Vietnam with the 1st Infantry Division, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

In January 1969 he was assigned to the White House as the Senior Military Advisor to Dr. Henry Kissinger. In June 1970, General Haig became Dr. Kissinger's Deputy and during this time made fourteen assessment trips to Southeast Asia as the personal emissary of the President of the United States. In January 1973 he was appointed Vice Chief of Staff of the Army but was recalled to the White House by President Nixon in May 1973 to rebuild the White House Staff. Although this was to be a temporary position, the President asked him to remain as Chief of the White House Staff, which resulted in General Haig's retirement from the military in August 1973. He remained in that sensitive position until 15 October 1974 when the President recalled him to active duty to become Commander in Chief, U.S. European Command and, two months later, Supreme Allied Commander Europe. He retired from the Army this summer.

Married to the former Patricia Fox, they are parents of two sons and a daughter.

THE BUSINESS COUNCIL

Guest List - October 1979

Page 2

DONALD J. KIRK, Chairman, Financial Accounting Standards Board

Mr. Kirk was appointed a Member of the Financial Accounting Standards Board when the Board was formed early in 1973. In September 1977 he was named Chairman, to be effective January 1, 1978.

Immediately after graduation from Yale University in 1959, Mr. Kirk joined the New York staff of Price Waterhouse & Co. Two years later he received the M.B.A. degree at New York University. In 1967 he was assigned to the firm's Washington, D.C. office and was admitted to partnership the same year. He returned to the New York office in 1970. While with Price Waterhouse he also served on technical committees of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the New York State Society of CPAs.

Mr. Kirk was born in Cleveland, Ohio, and now resides with his wife Tara in Greenwich, Connecticut. He has served as a member of the Representative Town Meeting and in 1977 was elected to the Board of Estimate and Taxation of the Town of Greenwich. He also has been a director of the Urban League of Southwestern Fairfield County and an officer of various mental health, conservation, and political organizations. He served as a naval aviator from 1953 to 1957.

JUANITA M. KREPS, The Secretary of Commerce

Secretary Kreps was born in Kentucky, graduated from Berea College in 1942, then earned her master's and doctoral degrees at Duke University. After teaching in California, Ohio and New York, she returned to Duke and joined the faculty of the University in 1955. Her husband, whom she met while a graduate student, teaches at the University of North Carolina.

At the time she joined the Carter Administration, Secretary Kreps was Vice President of Duke University, a professor of economics at the same university, a member of the Board of Directors of the New York Stock Exchange (the first woman ever appointed to that governing board), and was serving on several corporate boards. She has served on a long list of commissions and committees, and has received the North Carolina Medal, that State's highest honor.

Secretary Kreps' specialties have been in labor and management problems, with particular emphasis on women and the aged. As an author, her books include "Lifetime Allocation of Work and Income" and "Sex in the Market Place: American Women at Work."

Secretary Kreps and her husband are the parents of three children.

IRVING KRISTOL, Publisher, The Public Interest, and Resident Scholar, AEI

Mr. Kristol was born in New York City in 1920; he graduated from City College in 1940 and from 1947 to 1952 was managing editor of Commentary Magazine. He was co-founder and editor (along with Stephen Spender) of Encounter Magazine from 1953 to 1958; from 1959 to 1960 he was editor of The Reporter Magazine. From 1961 to 1969 he was executive vice president of Basic Books, Inc., a New York publishing house. Since 1969 he has been on the faculty of New York University, and is now Professor of Social Thought at the NYU Graduate School of Business Administration. Mr. Kristol is also

THE BUSINESS COUNCIL

Guest List - October 1979

Page 3

IRVING KRISTOL (continued)

co-editor, along with Nathan Glazer, of The Public Interest Magazine.

Mr. Kristol is a Senior Fellow of the American Enterprise Institute, a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He also served for a six-year term -- from 1972 through 1977 -- as a member of the National Council on the Humanities. He serves as a director of the Lincoln National Corporation, the Warner-Lambert Company, and Citizens Utilities Company.

Married to historian-author Gertrude Himmelfarb, they live in New York City.

G. WILLIAM MILLER, The Secretary of the Treasury

Secretary Miller was sworn in as Secretary of the Treasury on August 6, 1979. This Cabinet appointment came almost 18 months after he had served as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Born in Oklahoma and raised in Texas, he graduated in 1945 from the Coast Guard Academy with a B.S. in Marine engineering. He served until 1949 in the Far East and on the U.S. west coast. In 1952 he received a law degree from the University of California School of Law at Berkeley and joined the firm of Cravath, Swaine and Moore in New York City.

In 1956 Secretary Miller joined Textron Inc., became a Vice President in 1957 and President in 1960. In 1968 he became CEO and was elected Chairman and CEO in 1974, which post he held until taking the position at the Federal Reserve Board.

A former member of The Business Council, including two years as Vice Chairman in 1973 and 1974, Secretary Miller has been active throughout his business career in public service. He was a member of the Business Roundtable and Chairman of the Conference Board and of the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Married to the former Ariadna Rogojarsky, they now reside in Washington, D.C.

CHAUNCEY STARR, Vice Chairman, Electric Power Research Institute

Dr. Starr was appointed to his present position in May 1978, following five years of service as the founding president of the Electric Power Research Institute. From 1967 to 1973 he was the dean of the UCLA School of Engineering and Applied Science, following a 20-year industrial career, during which he served as Vice President of Rockwell International and as president of its Atomic Energy International Division.

He received an electrical engineering degree in 1932 and a Ph.D. in physics in 1935, both from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He then became a research fellow in physics at Harvard University and worked with Nobelist P. W. Bridgman in the field of high pressures. Following World War II he pioneered in the development of nuclear propulsion for rockets and ramjets, and in developing atomic power electricity plants.

THE BUSINESS COUNCIL

Guest List - October 1979

Page 4

CHAUNCEY STARR (continued)

Dr. Starr has been associated with most societies and organizations involved in the advancement of nuclear science and peaceful uses of atomic energy. In February 1978 he was nominated to the rank of "Officier" of the French Legion of Honor in recognition of his efforts aimed at promoting and furthering understanding between France and the United States in the field of scientific and industrial achievements.

Dr. Starr and his wife, the former Doris Evelyn Debel, are parents of a son and a daughter.

ELMER B. STAATS, Comptroller General of the United States

Mr. Staats, who took over as Comptroller General of the United States in March of 1966, came to his position from the Bureau of the Budget.

He first joined the Bureau in 1939 and served in various capacities until 1953, when he left for about a year to work for Marshall Field and Company in Chicago. He returned to Washington as Executive Officer of the Operations Coordinating Board and held this post until returning to the Budget Office in 1958.

In 1959, he was appointed Deputy Director of the Budget, a post he had also held in President Truman's Administration from 1950 to 1953, and he was in this post when appointed by President Johnson to the 15-year term as Comptroller General to head the General Accounting Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Staats, the former Margaret Rich, reside in Washington, D.C. They have one son and two daughters.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, United States Senator (Democrat - Illinois)

Senator Stevenson is a Democrat from Illinois, born in 1930. He graduated in 1948 from Milton Academy, in 1952 from Harvard College and in 1957 from Harvard Law School. In 1952 he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps, was commissioned and served in Japan and Korea before receiving his discharge.

After passing the Illinois Bar Examination in 1957 he served as a law clerk to a justice of the Illinois Supreme Court and then joined the law firm of Mayer, Friedlich, Spiess, Tierney, Brown and Platt. In 1964 he became a candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives and, in an at-large election, led all 236 candidates of both parties in the statewide voting. In 1966 he was elected Treasurer of the State of Illinois.

Upon the death of Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Senator Stevenson was elected by a plurality of over 500,000 votes on November 3, 1970 to serve the remainder of the term. He was reelected to his present term in November 1974.

Senator Stevenson is married to the former Nancy Anderson of Louisville, Kentucky and they are parents of four children.

THE BUSINESS COUNCIL

Guest List - October 1979

Page 5

ADMIRAL STANSFIELD TURNER, Director of Central Intelligence

Admiral Turner was sworn in as Director of Central Intelligence on March 9, 1977 following a distinguished career with the U.S. Navy.

A native of Highland Park, Illinois, he entered Amherst College in 1941, received an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy in 1943 and graduated in the Class of 1947. One year out of the Academy, he entered Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar for work on his Master's degree.

In May 1970, after a variety of naval assignments at sea and on shore, he was promoted to Rear Admiral and soon assumed command of a Carrier Task Group of the Sixth Fleet, after which he directed the Systems Analysis Division in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations. In August 1974, following two years as President of the Naval War College at Newport, he became commander of the United States Second Fleet and NATO Striking Fleet Atlantic. In August 1975, one month prior to his promotion to Admiral, he became Commander in Chief, Allied Forces Southern Europe, with headquarters in Naples, Italy, and it was from this command that he returned to Washington to assume his present duties.

Admiral Turner and his wife, Patricia, have a married daughter and a married son.

PAUL A. VOLCKER, Chairman, Board of Governors, Federal Reserve System

When Mr. Volcker took over as Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve, in August of this year, he continued in a career that he had learned from the ground up. His years of experience in the world of interest and exchange rates made him eminently qualified for the job.

Born in 1927 in Cape May, New Jersey, he earned his bachelor's degree from Princeton in 1949 and a master's in political economy and government from Harvard in 1951. He first went to work at the Treasury Department as a junior management assistant in 1951, then spent two years at the London School of Economics to study the British postwar monetary policy. Returning to the United States in 1953 he went to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York, resigning in 1967 to become financial economist of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

In 1962 he returned to the Treasury, first as Director of the Office of Financial Affairs, then for two years as Deputy Under Secretary for Monetary Affairs. From 1965 to 1969 he was back at Chase Manhattan as Vice President in charge of forward planning but returned to Washington in 1969 as Under Secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs. When he took his current position at the Federal Reserve, he came from the Presidency of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Married to the former Barbara Bahnson, they have a son and a daughter.